SECTION 2: RESEARCH PROJECT APPROVAL

After your initial correspondence with the Research Project Supervisor at the Host University, you should complete the project details below and then obtain approval from both the Research Project Supervisor (Host University) and an Academic Advisor at your home university. Please note that for the participation in the EuroScholars Program, these credits have to be earned. It will be at the discretion of the Research Project Supervisor to award these credits based on academic merit.

DETERMINE YOUR PROGRAM STRUCTURE

While the participation in an established academic research project is the primary feature of the EuroScholars program, some home universities may limit the amount of credit an undergraduate student can earn for research. Therefore, EuroScholars has adjusted its academic structure to accommodate for a more flexible program.

Participants can choose from 2 program options, each totaling up to maximum number of 30 ECTS to be earned per semester (which is equivalent to 15 US semester credits and a full time work load for 1 semester). The minimum number of ECTS that can be earned for research is 18 per semester.

» Option 1 (higher research focus)

- Language & culture course (classes + exam)*
- Participation in research project including article/presentation (research) and including Methods & Literature review (independent study)

» Option 2 (research + coursework)

- Language & culture course (classes + exam)*
- Participation in research project including article/presentation (research) and including Methods & Literature review
- 1 Elective course in the field of research (classes + exam)

* At most of the European Host institutions, the Language course is provided by a Language Center which has a collaboration with the university but is not part of the university. Therefore, some North American institutions might not accept the credits for the language course. The language course typically appears on the official transcript from the following host universities: LMU, the University of Geneva, and KU Leuven. Students are strongly advised to check this with their study advisor before setting up the learning agreement. If applicable, the student can request the Research Project Supervisor to add extra elements to the research project in order to earn the missing credits in order to meet the requirements of the home institution.

 Option 2 is not possible at all universities or in all academic areas as it depends on availability of courses taught in English at the Host Institution. At some European Host institutions, the credits for the elective course is between 2 - 8 ECTS. Not all elective courses will be denoted on host university transcripts with a letter or numeric grade (for example some may be listed as pass/fail). Students are strongly advised to check this with their study advisor and Research project supervisor before setting up the learning agreement in order to meet the requirements of the home institution. The number of credits can then be adjusted if applicable.
